Town of Windsor Hires Patrick Streeter as Community Development Director

Windsor, Calif. – The Town of Windsor has hired Patrick Streeter as Director of its Community Development Department. His tenure leading Windsor's development projects and overseeing the department's planning and building divisions and code enforcement began on January 31.

"We are very pleased to have his proven leadership skills and his exceptional community-focused planning and development perspective," said Interim Town Manager Mark Linder. "Patrick is a terrific addition to our very strong and capable executive team."

Mr. Streeter most recently served as the Planning and Building Director for the Town of Ross, in Marin County. But he's no stranger to Sonoma County. Prior to Ross, he worked as a Senior Planner for the City of Santa Rosa, where he took a leadership role in the city's downtown housing initiatives. Mr. Streeter also served as Deputy Planning and Intelligence Chief at Santa Rosa's Emergency Operation Center in the 2017 Tubbs Fire and 2019 Kincade Fire.

One of Mr. Streeter's key priorities is to continue Windsor's community-driven approach to development.

"Windsor has always supported a diverse selection of housing and development types. One of my top priorities will be continuing this thoughtful approach to development as the Town does its part to address California's unprecedented housing crisis," he said. "A lot of work and community input also went into the preparation of the 2040 General Plan. So, a major focus in the coming months and years is to implement this important community vision."

Before moving to California, Mr. Streeter worked as an environmental planner with New York City's Department of Environmental Protection and took part in the mayor's Special Initiative for Rebuilding and Resiliency following Superstorm Sandy in 2012.

Mr. Streeter graduated from Columbia University with an MS in urban planning and from Boston College with a BA in biology. In his free time, he enjoys traveling with his family, skiing and boating in Lake Tahoe, and brewing his own beer.
